

Nouns

A noun is a word that names a person, place, thing, or idea. Examples of nouns in English include 'park', 'Paris' and 'noun'. In French, every noun is either masculine or feminine. This does not mean the nouns are actually 'male' or 'female'. It is simply a way to split nouns into two groups. Here are some ways to identify whether a noun is masculine or feminine.

Masculine

Most French words that end in 'age' are masculine:

Chauffage - Heating
Village - Village
Fromage - Cheese

There are also types of words which are usually masculine such as days of the week and months:

Lundi - Monday
Samedi - Saturday

Janvier - January
Février - February

Feminine

Most French words that end in 'e' are feminine:

Patinoire - Ice rink
Piscine - Pool
Robe - Dress

Types of words which are feminine include, most countries ending in e and female family members:

Francee - France
Espagne - Spain

Maman - Mum
Soeur - Sister

There are some exceptions to these rules. For example the noun 'cage' means 'cage' but it is feminine despite ending in age.

And the noun 'stade' means 'stadium' but it is masculine despite ending in an e.

In French, there are also nouns which can be either gender, these are usually words referring to people or animals.

Enfant - Child

If the noun is talking about children in general, it will be masculine. However, it is feminine if it refers to a specific child that is female.

Articles

In grammar, an article is a word like 'a', 'an' or 'the' that comes before a noun to specify whether it is general or specific. In English, there are definite articles and indefinite articles.

Definite article - 'the' - when talking about something specific - I like the dog

Indefinite article - 'a' / 'an' / 'some' - when talking about something general - I have a dog

French also has definite and indefinite articles. But in French, they change depending on the gender (masculine or feminine) and number (singular or plural) of the noun.

Definite articles:

	masculine	feminine
singular	Le	La
plural	Les	Les

Le chat - The cat

Les chats - The cats

La main - The hand

Les mains - The hands

When 'le' or 'la' come before a vowel or a silent h with a vowel after it, they get contracted to L'.

L'hôpital - The hospital

L'histoire - The story / history

This does not happen to Les.

Indefinite articles:

	masculine	feminine
singular	Un	Une
plural	Des	Des

Un chat - A cat

Des chats - Some cats

Une maison - A house

Des maisons - Some houses

Making nouns plural in French:

A lot of words can be made plural by adding an 's' onto the end,

However there are some exceptions to this.

Words ending in -eau are usually made plural by adding an 'x'.

L'oiseau - The bird

Les oiseaux - The birds

Adjectives

An adjective is a word that describes a noun. Examples in English are 'green', 'slow' and 'English'. In French the adjective usually comes after the noun, and must also agree with the noun's gender and number. This means when an adjective describes a singular, masculine noun, the adjective must also be in the singular, masculine form. Here is how to do that with different French adjectives. Most adjectives follow these rules:

Most French adjectives:

	masculine	feminine
singular	grand	grande
plural	grands	grandes

le grand chat - the big cat La grande maison - The big house
les grands chats - the big cats Les grandes maisons - The big houses

For most adjectives, adding an e onto the masculine form makes them feminine.
Similarly an s can be added to make them plural.

Adjectives ending in e:

	masculine	feminine
singular	proche	proche
plural	proches	proches

Le proche champ - The close field La proche école - The close school
Les proches champs - The close fields Les proches écoles - The close schools

Changes for number, but not for gender

Regular adjectives ending in e have the same form for masculine and feminine.

Other rules:

In French there are special adjectives which go before the noun, grande and proche are examples of this, Adjectives describing beauty, age, newness, goodness or size typically do this.

An acronym for this is BANGS.

Some adjectives have a special 5th form for when they are before a vowel or silent h followed by a vowel.

Un beau garçon - A beautiful boy

Un bel homme - A beautiful man

This is only for singular nouns.

Possessive Adjectives

Possessive adjectives show ownership or relationship — they tell us whose something is.

In English, these are words like my, your, his, her, our, their.

In French, they agree with the gender and number of the noun they modify, not the owner.

Owner	Masculine singular	Feminine singular	Plural	English
je	mon	ma	mes	my
tu	ton	ta	tes	your (singular)
il / elle / on	son	sa	ses	his / her nous	notre	notre	nos	our
vous	votre	votre	vos	your (plural)
ils / elles	leur	leur	leurs	their

Ma sœur et mon frère adorent leur nouvelle école.

My sister and my brother love their new school.

Ton père et ta mère ont vendu leur maison.

Your father and your mother sold their house.

Nos amis et nos cousins viennent à votre fête.

Our friends and our cousins are coming to your party.

Verbs

A verb is an action word. Examples in English include 'play', 'run' and 'include'. In English, we change the verb slightly depending on who is doing it and when they did it. For example we say 'I play', 'he plays' and, in the past tense, 'I played'. This is called verb conjugation – the process of changing a verb depending on who is doing it and when they did it.

An infinitive is the base form of a verb, before you change (or “conjugate”) it. It's the form you'll find in the dictionary — the “to + verb” form in English. For example, 'to run', 'to speak'.

There are three types of infinitive in French: ones that end in '-er' (e.g. parler – to speak), ones that end in '-ir' (e.g. finir – to finish), and ones that end in '-re' (e.g. vendre – to sell).

Present tense endings for French verbs:

	-er	-ir	-re
Je <small>I</small>	e	is	s
Tu <small>You</small>	es	is	s
Il / Elle / On <small>He / She</small>	e	it	–
Nous <small>We</small>	ons	issons	ons
Vous <small>You (plural)</small>	ez	issez	ez
Ils / Elles <small>They</small>	ent	issent	ent

Subject pronouns:

Subject pronouns are words that indicate who is doing a verb, for example in the phrase I play, 'I' is the subject pronoun.

When 'Je' comes before a verb starting with a vowel or silent h followed by vowel, it is contracted to J'.

J'ai – I have

The subject pronoun 'on', can be used to mean 'we' or 'one' when talking generally.

On doit être sympa – We/You have to be kind.

It can be used to talk about everyone in general, like how you is sometimes used in English.

Conjugation

How to conjugate a verb:

Step 1: Remove the ending from your infinitive:

Manger becomes 'mang-'
This 'mang-' is called the verb stem.

Step 2: Choose subject pronoun

Think about who is doing the verb and find your subject pronoun. e.g. Vous - You (pl)

Step 3: Add appropriate ending to verb stem

Find which ending matches Vous, -ez, and add it onto the verb stem.

Vous mangez - You (pl) eat

Reflexive Verbs

SUBJECT PRONOUN	REFLEXIVE PRONOUN
JE	ME
TU	TE
IL/ELLE/ON	SE
NOUS	NOUS
VOUS	VOUS
ILS/ELLES	SE

Reflexive verbs:

Reflexive verbs are verbs which usually have an action done to the subject of the verb, but do not have to be. These verbs need reflexive pronouns, which in English are words like 'myself'. These make it clear who the action is being done to.

Je me lave - I wash myself
Il se couche - He goes to bed
Nous nous amusons - We enjoy ourselves

The reflexive pronoun goes between the subject pronoun and the conjugated verb.

When reflexive verbs are written in the infinitive form, (in the dictionary, equivalent to English 'to + verb') The reflexive pronoun se is included; this has to be changed when conjugating to match the subject pronoun.

se laver = to wash oneself
tu te laves = you wash yourself

Negatives

Negatives are used when you want to say that somebody does not do something,

Je ne mange pas de chocolat - I don't eat chocolate
 Je ne me leve pas à bonne heure - I don't wake up early

Negatives are formed by adding a ne and pas around the conjugated verb, note that reflexive pronouns goes between the ne and conjugated verb.

Other negative structures:

Ne ... rien = Nothing
 Je n'ai rien - I don't have anything

Ne ... personne = Nobody
 Je ne connais personne - I don't know anyone personne ne le sait* - nobody knows

Ne ... nullepart = Nowhere
 Il n'existe nullepart - It doesn't exist anywhere

Ne ... jamais = Never
 Nous ne nous entendons jamais - We never get along

Ne ... que = Only
 Il n'a que sa maman - He's only got his mom

Ne ... Aucun(e)(s)
 Il n'y a aucune chance - There is not a single chance
 Je n'ai aucun argent - I don't have any money at all

Ne ... guère = Barely / Hardly ever
 Je ne me promène guère - I hardly ever go on walks

*Some negative structures can be 'reversed'

Rien n'arrive - Nothing happens

The 'Ne + verb + rien' becomes 'Rien ne + verb'

Irregular Verbs

There are some verbs that do not follow these ending patterns at all. These verbs are called irregular verbs. They change unpredictably so their conjugations must be memorised. Three very important ones are aller (to go), être (to be) and avoir (to have).

SUBJECT PRONOUN	ALLER	ÊTRE	AVOIR
JE	VAIS	SUIS	AI
TU	VAS	ES	AS
IL/ELLE/ON	VA	EST	A
NOUS	ALLONS	SOMMES	AVONS
VOUS	ALLEZ	ÊTES	AVEZ
ILS/ELLES	VONT	SONT	ONT

Common irregular verbs:

Faire - To do/make
 Boire - To drink
 Dire - To say
 Devoir - To have to
 Savoir - To know a fact
 Vouloir - To want
 Pouvoir - To be able to
 Venir - To come
 Partir - To leave
 Dormir - To sleep
 Vivre - To live
 Prendre - To take Mettre - To put

Aller and Être are especially important, not only because they're so commonly used, but also because they are used as auxiliary verbs in other tenses. (They are used to help form the perfect and near future tenses)

Stem - changing verbs

Not all irregular verbs have no pattern, stem-changing verbs are verbs where the verb stem changes spelling when you conjugate it, but the endings stay regular.

Je mets
 Tu mets
 Il met
 Nous mettons
 Vous mettez
 Ils mettent

The stem of the verb (Mett-) is changed to (Met-) for the Je, Tu, and Il forms, Then the stem goes back to normal for the Nous, Vous, and Ils forms.

Near future tense:

Meaning:

Saying something in the near future tense in French is the same as saying, 'going to + verb' in English.

I am going to eat - Je vais manger
He is going to go to bed - Il va se coucher

How to form it:

The near future tense is formed by conjugating the verb aller, and adding an infinitive.

The conjugation of aller should match the subject (the person/thing doing the action)

If the verb after aller is reflexive, the reflexive pronoun must match the subject, even though the infinitive stays unconjugated.

We are going to get up early - Nous allons nous lever tôt
They are going to shower - Ils vont se doucher

Perfect tense:

Meaning:

The perfect tense is used to describe single, completed actions in the past, and can be translated to having done something. (e.g. I walked my dog)

Je suis allé(e) au marché - I went to the market / I have gone to the market
Il a mangé - He ate / He has eaten

How to form it for most verbs:

The perfect tense is formed roughly in the same way as the near future tense, however, instead of having an infinitive after aller, there is a past participle after avoir.

The past participle of most verbs can be found by adding one of 3 endings to the verb stem:

ER	IR	RE
-é	-i	-u

Aller - Allé
Choisir - Choisi
Perdre - Perdu

However there are verbs with irregular past participles such as boire - bu

Exceptions and reflexive verbs:

There are certain verbs which in the perfect tense do not use avoir as the auxiliary verb. They instead use être as their auxiliary verb and the past participles have to agree with number and gender of the subject.

This is true for all reflexive verbs and certain verbs (usually to do with movement) which are listed in DR & MRS VANDERTRAMP.

Je me suis couché(e) - I went to bed
Il est allé au magasin - He went to the shop
Elle s'est levée tard - She got up late

In the perfect tense, the reflexive pronoun goes between the subject and the auxiliary verb (être).

The reason why there is an (e) in brackets in the first example is to show that the past participle will change to agree with the gender of the subject.

For mixed groups (e.g. saying nous referring to boys and girls) the agreement is the same as a plural masculine word.

Group with all boys:

Nous sommes allés au parc - We went to the park

Group with all girls:

Nous sommes allées au parc - We went to the park

Modal verbs

Modal verbs are verbs which can express necessity or ability and are followed by infinitives, the most common modal verbs are: Devoir (to have to), Pouvoir (to be able to), Savoir (to know how to) and Falloir (to be necessary).

These verbs are irregular, but do follow a pattern:

	DEVOIR	POUVOIR	SAVOIR
JE	DOIS	PEUX	SAIS
TU	DOIS	PEUX	SAIS
IL/ELLE/ON	DOIT	PEUT	SAIT
NOUS	DEVONS	POUVONS	SAVONS
VOUS	DEVEZ	POUVEZ	SAVEZ
ILS/ELLES	DOIVENT	PEUVENT	SAVENT

Falloir (It is necessary to):

Falloir is special, because it is an impersonal verb. This means there's only one conjugation to worry about for each tense, as it's only conjugated in the 3rd person singular (Il/Elle/On form).

Il faut faire les devoirs - It's necessary to do the homework

Il fallait écouter en cours - It was necessary to listen in class

PAST	PRESENT	FUTURE
IL FALLAIT	IL FAUT	IL FAUDRA

*Il fallait is in the imperfect tense

*Il faudra is in the simple future tense

Imperfect tense

Meaning:

The imperfect tense is used to express habitual actions and interrupted past actions.

It can translate to: I was doing something or I used to do something.

Je regardais la télé quand mon père est arrivé

- I was watching TV when my dad arrived - interrupted action

Nous allions à l'école tous les jours - We used to go to school every day - habitual action

Je me levais à sept heures - I used to get up at 7 o'clock - habitual action

How to form:

To form the imperfect tense, the verb is conjugated normally, except that instead of using the verb stem, there's a different stem formed by removing -ons from the present tense we form.

Some verbs such as être have irregular stems (ét--).

	all infinitives	parler
Je <small>I</small>	ais	parlais
Tu <small>You</small>	ais	parlais
Il / Elle / On <small>He / She</small>	ait	parlait
Nous <small>We</small>	ions	parlions
Vous <small>You (plural)</small>	iez	parliez
Ils / Elles <small>They</small>	aient	parlaient

Simple future tense

Meaning:

Using the near future tense in French is the same as saying something will do something in English.

J'irai à la patinoire – I will go to the ice rink
 Nous nous entendrons bien – We will get along well

	all infinitives	parler
Je <small>I</small>	ai	parlerai
Tu <small>You</small>	as	parleras
Il / Elle / On <small>He / She</small>	a	parlera
Nous <small>We</small>	ons	parlerons
Vous <small>You (plural)</small>	ez	parlerez
Ils / Elles <small>They</small>	ont	parleront

Note that the endings are added to the infinitive without getting rid of the 'ar' or 'er'. For 're' verbs the 'e' is lost.

For example, 'attendre' becomes 'j'attendrai' – I will wait

Conditional

Meaning:

Using the conditional in French is the same as saying something would do something in English.

J'irais à la patinoire – I would go to the ice rink.
 Nous nous entendrions bien – We would get along well.
 Je voudrais ... – I would like ...

	all infinitives	parler
Je <small>I</small>	ais	parlerais
Tu <small>You</small>	ais	parlerais
Il / Elle / On <small>He / She</small>	ait	parlerait
Nous <small>We</small>	ions	parlerions
Vous <small>You (plural)</small>	iez	parleriez
Ils / Elles <small>They</small>	aient	parleraient

Note that the endings are added to the infinitive without getting rid of the 'ar' or 'er'. For 're' verbs the 'e' is lost.

For example, 'attendre' becomes 'j'attendrais' – I would wait

Irregular Stems

In French, most verbs form the future and conditional tenses by adding the appropriate endings to the infinitive form of the verb.

However, some verbs are irregular, meaning their stems change before you add the endings.

These irregular stems are the same for both the future simple and the conditional, so once you learn them, you can use them for both tenses.

For example,

être becomes ser-
avoir becomes auraller becomes ir-
faire becomes fer-

Other common irregular stems include pourr- (from pouvoir, “to be able to”), voudr- (from vouloir, “to want”) saur- (from savoir, “to know”) devr- (from devoir, “to have to”), viendr- (from venir, “to come”) verr- (from voir, “to see”).

After the irregular stem, you simply add the normal future endings (-ai, -as, -a, -ons, -ez, -ont) or conditional endings (-ais, -ais, -ait, -ions, -iez, -aient).

For example, je serai means “I will be,” while je serais means “I would be.”

Adverbs

An adverb is a word that describes or modifies a verb, adjective, or another adverb.
It tells us how, when, where, or to what extent something happens.

Elle parle doucement. → She speaks softly.

Il court vite. → He runs fast.

Je suis très fatigué. → I am very tired.

Most adjectives undergo the following process to be turned into adverbs:

①

lent

heureux

Adjective

② lente

heureuse

Make adjective feminine

③ lentement

slowly

heureusement fortunately

Add '-ment'

Not all adverbs are made like this:

Some French adverbs come from adjectives ending in -ant or -ent.
To form them, you remove the ending and add -amment or -emment.

constant → constamment (constantly)

prudent → prudemment (carefully)

évident → évidemment (obviously) récent → récemment (recently)

Il travaille constamment. → He works constantly.

Elle conduit prudemment. → She drives carefully.

Évidemment, il a raison. → Obviously, he's right.

J'ai récemment visité Paris. → I recently visited Paris.

And some adjectives deviate entirely from the regular adverb formation process:

bon → bien

Il chante bien. → He sings well.

meilleur → mieux

Elle joue mieux. → She plays better.

mauvais → mal

Je me sens mal. → I feel bad.

petit → peu

Il mange peu. → He doesn't eat much.

Prepositions

Prepositions are words that indicate the relationship between the words that they link,

In English examples of prepositions are words such as: 'of', 'at', 'to', 'inside', 'since'.

Since French and English prepositions have a wide range of uses, where English uses the same preposition for two different sentences, French may use different ones.

Basically prepositions cannot always be consistently translated and depend more on context.

General translations of common French prepositions:

À / Au / Aux - To, At

(Anywhere where there is an À + Le, it changes to au, when it's À + Les, it becomes aux)

De / Des / D' - Of, From

(De becomes des before plural words and d' before vowels and silent H's followed by vowels)

Depuis - Since

Jusque - Until, up to (Almost always followed by other prepositions such as à, remember to say jusqu'à/au when you mean until)

Dedans - Within / Inside

Chez - At the home of

(Followed by a disjunctive pronoun, which are words like moi, toi and lui or a noun)

Pour - For, In order to

(Followed by a disjunctive pronoun or noun)

Par - By, Through

Sans - Without

(Followed by a disjunctive pronoun or noun)

Avec - With

(Followed by a disjunctive pronoun or noun)

Examples:

Je reste à la maison - I stay at home

Matthieu est le fils de Marie - Matthieu is the son of Marie

Je joue de la guitare depuis cinq ans - I've played the guitar for 5 years

Je ne le savais pas jusqu'à ce moment - I didn't know it until now

Le cadeau est dedans l'emballage - The present is within the packaging

Je vais chez moi - I am going home (my house)

Ce cadeau est pour toi - This gift is for you

Nous sommes passés par le parc - We went through the park

Il boit son café sans sucre - He drinks his coffee without sugar

Je parle avec mon frère - I am talking with my brother
